A SHORT SUMMARY OF JUDE SON OF JAMES, THE APOSTLE

Listed together with Simon the Zealot and James the Less, Jude completes a grouping of the least-known apostles. In Twelve Ordinary Men, Jude is characterized as a tender-hearted, gentle man who displays childlike humility. Jude the apostle, also referred to as Jude of James, Judas of James, Thaddeus, Judas Thaddeus, and Lebbaeus was one of the twelve main disciples of Jesus Christ. Some scholars believe he is the same person as Jude, brother of Jesus, who is traditionally regarded as the author of the Epistle of Jude.

While his name is sometimes translated as Judas (Jude and Judas are English forms of the same Greek name), he is not Judas Iscariot, the infamous disciple who betrayed Jesus for 30 pieces of silver.

Jude the apostle is only mentioned a handful of times in the New Testament. Exactly how many times depends on if we consider him the same person as Jude, brother of Jesus. Either way, the Bible doesn't give us much to go on. One of the few concrete facts about "Jude of James" is that he was a member of the Twelve, making him one of Jesus' closest disciples and confidents. While there are four lists of the Twelve apostles in the Bible, only two of them include Jude (or Judas, depending on the translation).

Luke 6: 13 - 16, "When morning came, he called his disciples to him and chose twelve of them, whom he also designated apostles: Simon (whom he named Peter), his brother Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, Simon who was called the Zealot, Judas son of James, and Judas Iscariot, who became a traitor."

Acts 1: 13, "When they arrived, they went upstairs to the room where they were staying. Those present were Peter, John, James and Andrew; Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew; James, son of Alphaeus and Simon the Zealot, and Judas son of James."

Interestingly, both of these lists were written by Luke. The other two lists appear to replace Jude with someone named Thaddeus, and there are mixed theories as to why. In any case, his inclusion among the Twelve means Jude spent about three years living with Jesus, witnessing his miracles, and hearing his teachings. He saw numerous demonstrations of Jesus' divinity.

PRAYER REQUESTS

Please pray for the members in our congregation who are in need of God's grace, healing and strength through difficult times. Please pray for Taida Marembo, Geraldine's mother, Petro, Ian, Kate and Landon, as they are going through a very difficult time. We also need to thank God for prayers answered.

OUR ANCHOR

When the waves won't listen and the sky won't clear, faith becomes the anchor that holds.

Acts 27 has Paul in a dangerous storm at sea along with 275 other people. The great difference is that while the majority of the other passengers were scared witless, Paul had Christ in the storm.

While Jesus may never visit us personally as He did Paul on that stormy night, He does promise His presence through His promises in our own storms. The storm may still rage, but the Prince of Peace can calm His child.

"Therefore, keep up your courage men, for I believe God ..." (Acts 27: 25).

The statement "God is our anchor" is a metaphor, primarily from the Bible, signifying that God provides security, stability, and steadfastness during life's challenges and trials. Like a physical anchor keeps a ship from drifting in rough seas, faith and hope in God's promises secure the soul, offering a firm foundation and preventing believers from being overwhelmed by difficulties.
